WINSTON STATES THAT COMMANDER OF AMERICAN FORCES WILL HAVE CAVALRY BRIGADES UNDER HIM.

FINISH PREPARATIONS

Think Regulars Are Sufficient for Present to Cope With the Situation—Troop Movement Delayed by Lack of Transportation.

BULLETIN
San Antonio, Tex., March 13.—Major General Funston announced positively early this afternoon there would be no movement of troops across the border today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Antonio, March 13.—No movement of the expeditionary force which will search for Villa is probable today. General Funston announced this morning. The general said preparations for the expedition were going right ahead, despite Carranza's notification to Washington government that he would not consent to American troops entering Mexico, unless Carranza troops were allowed to enter the United States.

It was officially announced that Brigadier General John J. Pershing will command the expeditionary force.

General Funston said he had received no notification from Washington to hold back the expedition while negotiations were completed with Carranza.

Up to Pershing.

General Funston said the announcement of the expedition's start into Mexico probably would come from General Pershing, to whom would be left the decision as to the exact hour for setting the movement in motion.

Shortage of rolling stock, General Funston said, was hindering the concentration of cavalry at the base of operations, and this was one reason why a movement today was unlikely.

The fault, he said, lay with the railroads west of El Paso.

"We have even had to transport men in boxcars," he declared. "If this had been merely a regular expedition, we could have been in Mexico on Villa's very heels," he continued.

"But this is largely a cavalry movement, and that is why there has been delay."

All Regulars.

Light was thrown on the size of the expeditionary force by the general, who said:

"When the movement is completed there will be only one regular regiment left in the United States other than those troops stationed along the border for patrol duty."

There is little likelihood of militia being called on to supplement the regular army unless there should be a turn in events that would necessitate a more important expedition into Mexico than the punitive expedition plan.

"Of course," said the general, "if the Carranza government were unable to control the situation and there should be general opposition in Mexico to the entrance of American soldiers, the entire regular army would have to be employed in the movement, and part of the militia, too. Patrol duty along the border would be delegated to the militia."

Force Sufficient.

It was made clear that this expeditionary force was not expected. There will be no infantry or cavalry movement from Fort Sam Houston for the present, it was announced. The first aerial squadron went forward to El Paso this morning.

The developments in the Mexican situation will not affect the citizen's training camp to be held from June 1 to 15 at Fort Huachuca, where it was reported the army had gathered had stimulated interest in the camp and that applications for registration were going in daily. Plans for the camp are going right ahead, and General Funston is being deluged with applications from persons who want to act as interpreters for the expedition.

He said this morning that every man in the state is able to speak three words of Spanish has applied for duty.

Advance Guards Ready.

El Paso, March 13.—In spite of official denials, reports persisted here today that American cavalry on the Arizona state line had gathered for immediate crossing of the Mexican border, and that they might go across at any moment today. An advance guard of several hundred troops was reported to have crossed the border with the prospect that it might be the first force into Mexico.

The point where the cavalry expedition is reported gathering is near San Bernardino, Mexico.

Holds Conference.

General Gabriel Gaviota, commanding the Carranza forces at Juarez, came to El Paso today to hold a conference with General Pershing, in command of Fort Bliss. General Gaviota said the meeting would be held at the Mexican consulate here.

Cavalry troops have been dispatched from Laguna, on the line of the old Mexican & Central railway north of Chihuahua City, direct to Casas Grandes, to aid the 500 members of the Mormon colony concentrated at that point but now off from communication with either Chihuahua City or Juarez.

Villa Sighted.

General Gaviota received news of the new cavalry movement from General Pershing, and it followed immediately on the report of a scout from the northwestern line in direction of Casas Grandes, but turned back upon seeing smoke at a distance of 3000, which seemed to come from a burning bridge. Villa was last reported in the neighborhood of Corralitos, not far distant. Assuming that Villa's forces were there, the train returned.

Concentrate U. S. Troops.

Columbus, March 13.—Actual concentration of United States troops for an expedition into Mexico to try to capture Villa, was begun here today. From the heavy troop movements to Columbus it would seem, according to President Wilson Urges Clark and Kitchin to Secure Action on Administration Measures.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 13.—President Wilson urged Speaker Clark and Majority Leader Kitchin today to speed up the army and navy bills, the tariff, Philippine and shipping bills, and other measures in the administration legislative program.

Senator Borah, republican, urged the senate today to drop all other legislation and immediately consider the national preparedness program in favor of consequences, that might arise from the decision to pursue Villa in Mexico.

Chairman Chamberlain of the military committee told the senate that in his opinion the state United States army did not have enough soldiers to cope with Mexico or enough equipment. He added he would not be surprised to see all Mexicans rally around Villa.

It is no less interesting than any of its predecessors.

"A Year of Victory."

"The year 1916," Mme. Thebes says, "will be the year of victory. We are going to be victorious all over the year because we shall have proved our ability to hold out the longest."

In a private interview she said: "I believe the war is going to come to an end either during the present month of March or in September this year. During the present month a victory will shake all Europe and if this does not end the war, it will end in September. I do not believe in the possibility of another winter campaign."

When a few years before the actual event, she told the Empress Elizabeth of Austria that she was to be assassinated, the unhappy woman exclaimed: "You have no idea how happy you make me feel, for you do not know how I loathe this life."

Speaking of the fate of the Kaiser, she says:

"The days of the Hohenzollern are numbered. If he does not commit suicide he will be murdered by a German hand and will linger in long agony. All his children, with the exception of one, shall be stricken down by the avenging hand, the shadow of which is already seen in the sky. We are near the end. I already hear the rumbling of the wheels of the chariots of triumph."

PERMIT TO CROSS THE LINE GIVEN

CARRANZA'S REQUEST THAT HE BE GRANTED PERMISSION TO FOLLOW BANDITS INTO U. S. ACCEPTED.

WASHINGTON IS QUIET

Will Two Armies Work Together is Now the Question Asked in Washington War Department Circles.

BULLETIN.
Washington, March 13.—The United States this afternoon accepted Carranza's proposal for a reciprocal agreement by which his troops or American troops may pursue bandits on either side of the border. A note of acceptance was sent forward to Carranza.

To Answer Carranza.

Washington, March 13.—The United States will reply to Carranza's request for a reciprocal agreement for crossing of troops at the Mexican border late today, after Secretary Lansing has conferred with President Wilson.

It was indicated that Carranza's proposal would be accepted. The acceptance probably will be made on the ground that Carranza troops may cross into American territory in pursuit of bandits at any time that American forces are not present in sufficient numbers. It will be pointed out that inability of Carranza troops to handle the situation in northern Mexico is the sole ground for entry of American soldiers.

In that way, the American officials expect the situation will be relieved of its menacing feature. They expressed the view today that a great deal of unnecessary pessimism exists as to Carranza's attitude. As to the attitude of the Mexican people, there is no concern, it is realized, but only the development of the next few days will clear up that phase of the situation.

No Plans Changed.

There was no indication at the war department that negotiations for reciprocal arrangements had in any way altered the situation.

Publication of Carranza's manifesto declaring that armed invasion of Mexico by Carranza would not be tolerated except on a reciprocal basis, apparently has not resulted in any change of Funston's instructions to proceed with the pursuit of Villa.

General Pershing, who studied the Carranza manifesto, was convinced that it was not intended as a communication to the United States in any sense.

Position Delicate.

The head of the defense government, he pointed out, was in a delicate position, forced to satisfy conflicting elements among his own adherents, and to pursue a course he pursued.

It was admitted, however, that if Carranza enforced the sentiment expressed in his manifesto, the pursuit of Villa might be hampered seriously.

ENGLISH SHIP BURNS AT ST. JOHNS DOCKS

Steamer Matatua Takes Fire As It Starts Voyage—Captain Is Killed in Explosion Caused by James.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Johns, N. B., March 13.—The Matatua, a British steamer, today being on fire for more than twenty-four hours, was sunk at her dock today, soon after a series of explosions during which her commander and designer, Captain L. B. Gilham, was killed. His body was recovered. It is expected the hull of the vessel may be raised and refitted. The cargo, which was being shipped to New Zealand, probably was destroyed.

The fire was discovered yesterday, and the Matatua, which was ready to sail, was towed back to her dock where firemen apparently subdued the flames. Later, however, several explosions thought to have started from heated calcium carbide, caused a second fire which burned furiously, and the vessel allowed to sink. Captain Gilham was caught in his stateroom, and could not escape.

HEAVY LOSSES AT VAUX

German Columns Reported to Have Suffered Terrible Slaughter in Fighting Before Verdun Outpost.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, March 13.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Central News says that on account of the German offensive at Verdun the Dutch-Belgian frontier had been closed for several weeks. That part of it south of Maastricht has now been reopened and this fact is commented on in Holland as probably indicating that the Germans consider their offensive near an end. The dispatch adds that eighty-one more hospital trains with wounded German soldiers from Verdun have passed through Luxembourg.

Loss Heavily Before Vaux.

Paris, March 13.—The German losses in the fighting around Fort Vaux last Friday and Saturday surpassed all previous records in this war, according to officers who have returned from Verdun. Time and time again and with great courage the Germans in columns four deep rushed over their trenches only to melt away under the fire of the French 75 150 and 210 millimeter guns, which rained shells with deadly accuracy into the ranks of the German troops. When the smoke and dust cleared nothing was to be seen but heaps of bodies.

The spur on which the fort is situated is almost perpendicular in certain places. The German lines were forced to halt, but many German soldiers climbed up on one another's shoulders and struggled up the slopes clinging to angles of the rock.

Again and again the human pyramids collapsed into shapeless gray masses. At the lowest estimate the attackers lost two-thirds of their force.

Attack at Daybreak.

The fighting was extremely desperate when German regiments from the 15th and 18th German army corps attacked the village of Vaux on Friday. Dawn was just breaking and over the country hung a heavy white mist, making everything invisible beyond a hundred yards. This enabled the Germans to get within rushing distance of the French front trenches, but although they withdrew their advance defenders six to one it took four distinct assaults before the first columns of Germans won the shelter of a small group of houses beyond the church of Vaux. They then organized an assault upon the church, and the French being unable to bring up reinforcements on account of the German cutting of the telephone wires, the defenders rushed to attack the church, but every time were beaten back.

London, March 13.—With a view to liberating more men for active use in the army, the government has revised the list of starred occupation employment from the country, and has ordered workmen. It is expected official details will be issued immediately.

The revision is in accordance with the recent recommendation of the Earl of Derby in cases where it is found impossible to remove occupations altogether from the starred list, men under thirty years will be replaced by women or older men.

GRAIN ALCOHOL MAY DISPLACE GASOLINE

Government Experiments Indicate That Alcohol May Become Cheaper Power Producer.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., March 13.—That grain alcohol may be used as a substitute for gasoline because of the soaring price of the latter is predicted by Howard R. Weiss, director of the forest products laboratory here. The government has been conducting experiments along this line for the past three years. Gasoline is selling at from 27 cents to 30 cents in New York. Grain alcohol can be produced at from 13 cents to 15 cents a gallon. Weiss is submitting the complete details of the results of the experiments to the federal government and also to large manufacturers here. The laboratory produced twenty-five gallons of 85 percent alcohol.

Weiss is of the opinion that grain alcohol is to be one of the great powers in the future. He says that when the engines have been remodeled a gallon of alcohol will go as far as a gallon of gasoline. He declares that alcohol is safer, forms no carbon on the spark plugs, has no smoke and is not offensive.

GOVERNMENT LAND TO BE PARCELED OFF IN NEBRASKA

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Alliance, Neb., March 13.—The drawing for farms under the government land laws which is scheduled to occur here March 24, will not in any respect resemble those that have signified the opening of various reservations in this and adjoining states in recent years. The land opened to entry at this time is within the North Platte irrigation district of the National reclamation service. There will be no registrations as in other cases. Each applicant will file for the tract wanted under the homestead laws. This can be done at any time beginning March 19 and at either Alliance, Bridgeport or Kearney. March 24 drawings will be made for such tracts as have more than one claimant.

The amount of land to be opened to entry has been given as 14,000 acres. This is including as actually only 4,000 acres are involved. The government land in this vicinity was never withdrawn from entry but is non-irrigable and therefore of little value it has not been settled upon.

The land is divided into what are designated "farm units" containing from 40 to 100 acres each. These units which are 43 in number, contain from 30 to 100 acres of irrigable land each. They are not in one body, but are scattered along the new government irrigation ditch now as the "high line lateral." This parallels two older ditches which serve many of the localities. All these canals are supplied with water from the great Pathfinder reservoir.

The land in these units can be obtained under the general homestead laws except that a charge of $25 an acre is made for water rights for the irrigable land in each tract. This charge is to be paid within twenty years, without interest. The payment of $2.75 an acre must be made at once. Five years hence the second installment is due, payments being annual thereafter. Until all is paid, no patent to the land is issued and the government land is not taxable the homesteader is thus exempted from taxes on his land for twenty years.

The land is all in Morrill county, Nebraska, in the North Platte valley, from eight to twelve miles from Bridgeport. Farming by the aid of irrigation has been carried on for several years in this and adjoining counties, and improved farms are valued at from $75 to $200 an acre.

WARRING NATIONS CANNOT GET RIFLES BOUGHT BY BRAZIL THREE YEARS AGO

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Rio de Janeiro, March 13.—Four hundred thousand rifles bought during President Hermes Fonseca's administration, the anxiety of certain warring European powers to get the rifles and President Wenceslau Braz' strict ideas of neutrality have ensnared Brazil in a nasty international tangle.

When Brazil bought the rifles three years ago Europe was at war. It asked what Brazil's army of ten thousand men would do with 400 thousand rifles. But when the war broke out, England and Russia especially, remembered and immediately approached certain members of the official circle of Brazil and it is said, were assured they had reason to hope the rifles would be on the firing line "pronto" if not sooner.

The rifles were sold to a certain man. President Braz takes his duties seriously and President Braz put his foot down on these hopes. "Nothing doing," said he, "contrary to the laws of neutrality." To once his refusal, he has discharged his secretary, Sr. Lafayette de Carvalho, accused of being head of the clique that promised the rifles.

It is said the British government was not content to let the matter rest. Accusations are published with bitter comments in the Brazilian press that England exerted pressure upon the Brazilian government to make Brazil sell the rifles and violate the laws of neutrality.

According to these accusations, Rothschilds, London, who held a large amount of Brazilian treasury bills which fell due on January 1st, insinuated that these bills could be taken up in rifles. Despite financial embarrassment President Braz paid the notes in British gold.

Then came a proposal from a "neutral syndicate" in Argentina to buy the rifles, and when that was refused another company made propositions. President Braz stands pat and the accusations and rumors are being investigated by a federal senate committee.

LIQUOR DISTRIBUTION BY THE GOVERNMENT IS PROPOSED IN CANADA

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Winnipeg, Man., March 13.—Distribution of liquor by government liquor stores through most of western Canada within five months, will follow if the McDonald prohibition act, upon which the people of Manitoba are voting today, passes. Under the provisions of the act, liquor could not be legally sold in bars, clubs, or wholesale houses within the province of Manitoba. Men with families would be allowed to import liquor for the province for home consumption. This clause of the act led to the presumption that if the act passes, Cupid's business may be boosted to the bachman's liquor inside the province. The province for sale outside the province only as the law stipulates. Those engaged in the retail liquor business must close up May 1st. The government will receive no compensation for their losses, which will amount to millions of dollars if the act passes. Alberta will go dry July 1, and Saskatchewan already is anti hotel-saloon territory. In the provinces government stores distribute liquor.

Just as you respect the vast amount of work and care it has taken for you to succeed in your business, so you should respect the architect in his business. As an originator and a "clearing house" of building ideas and experiences—gained from putting up many buildings, also from studying the trend of building laws and future needs of housekeeping, he arranges the building so that it shall later suit other folks in case you sell or rent.

Why architecture depends upon comfort

You may build in the joyous Spring-time or Summer, and think only of porches and screens, but the architect always keeps before him a vision of the grim Winter Kings. He knows that when the bitter cold days come, any occupied building will be a failure that is not cleanly, healthfully, genially warmed by coal-economizing radiator heating. These outfits change houses into homes, change barn-like stores into pleasant shops!

Wherein architects save heating costs

The architect will more than earn his fee by alone making the radiator heating outfit cost you nothing, through omitting from the plans the extra chimneys, needless mantels, useless inner doors, double window sash, weather strips, storm doors, etc.

Architects study future values for you

Those who build hope for the neighborhood to improve and value to increase. The architect helps you to study keenly the future of the locality. He will prove to you that property modernized with IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators will

HAPPIEST WAR PRISONERS ARE AUSTRIANS TAKEN BY THE ITALIAN SOLDIERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Rome, March 13.—The happiest war prisoners in Europe are those fifty thousand of Austria now held by the Italians according to the Rev. Walter L. Lowrie, pastor of St. Paul's American church who has been specially delegated by the Young Men's Christian association to look after prison camps in Italy.

After returning from a trip recently among the prisoners Dr. Lowrie said to a correspondent of The Associated Press: "These prisoners are lodged in some of the most magnificent castles and palaces of Italy, the homes of former kings and princes. They are well fed, they are not ill-treated or browbeaten, and they not only are not made to work but they are really leading the happy life, if anybody can be said to be happy in a prison camp."

From home and country and family and loved ones. They have but two complaints to make, one is that Europe is at war.

"I am ashamed of everybody in Europe," said one prisoner to me, and he voiced the sentiment of all. Of course this feeling has a certain mental depression as an accompaniment. Their second complaint is that they are not allowed to work and earn a few cents a day, as prisoners are permitted to do in France, Germany and elsewhere.

That they are not at work is due to the objections made by the labor leaders of Italy who felt that all war work should go to Italians in need of work to keep themselves and their families going.

"But these prisoners are improving their time for all that. Nearly of them are learning English. I have had difficulty in getting enough English books for them."

"Among the places where the prisoners are kept is the castle at Aquila built by Frederick II. and about which Emperor William once wrote a monograph. Another place is at Balia near Naples where some of the prisoners are housed in the beautiful old structure of the dukes of Anjou. I think its terraces looking over the bay give one of the finest views of all Italy. Two thousand prisoners are sheltered also in the Siemian monastery at Padua, which is perhaps more comfortable than a palace. There was some talk of also using the Bourbon royal palace at Caserta, the Versailles of Italy, which would hold no less than fifty thousand prisoners and make them comfortable at that."

TOTAL STRENGTH OF ARMY IN CHINA IS NEARLY FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Peking, March 13.—Before the outbreak of the Tzuansan revolution, the total reported strength of the Chinese army was 481,290. Of these troops

$2,000 were reported to be in Chihli, which is the province in which Peking is located. Kwangtung province, in which Canton is located, had 38,800 according to the last official report and was third military strength. Kiangsu province, in which Shanghai and the very important strategic city of Nanking which commands the Yangtze valley are located, was second in military strength with a total of 43,500 troops. Hunan province, immediately south of Chihli province, which is the home of President Yuan Shih-kai, was fourth in military strength with 34,600 troops.

Yunnan and Szechuen provinces, which are now figuring so prominently in the revolution, had a much less military strength at the time this last report was made, but many troops have been moved recently and the military forces at Szechuen are now probably three times the 17,000 troops reported a few months ago. Yunnan province, when this report was made, had 21,400 troops. At the time the revolution broke out, it was generally estimated that 30,000 soldiers joined the revolutionists and deserted the government. Recruiting has been going on at a very lively rate since the revolution, and the number has now probably been greatly increased.

One of the great weaknesses is that each province has its own army, and to a great extent each commanding general is a potentate quite independent of the central government. The correlation of the provincial army has always been a very difficult task. Commanding officers frequently display very great independence, and there is constant fear in Peking lest some commanding general like Feng Kuochang, who is in charge of the important garrison at Nanking, shall desert the government and join the insurrectionists.

INDIA REMAINS FAITHFUL TO THE BRITISH RULE EVEN DURING DARKEST MOMENTS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

London, March 13.—"What is the real truth about India?" This question was asked today in a quarter of official London in such close touch with India, day by day, that the answer cannot be regarded as other than official. The answer was: "India is as firm as the rock of Gibraltar."

"The present war has served as the supreme test of the stability of British rule in India. There are 230,000,000 people in the Indian empire and consequently some strife is inevitable, in times of peace as well as in times of war. The responsible heads of the various castes, members of the Indian council, always are critical of the government, but they are as loyal as any British statesman who criticizes his government on the floor of the House of Commons."

"An example of this loyalty is shown in the fact that the Indian council, at readily command a larger loan from bankers; or, you can sell property quicker and get full money back; or 10% to 15% higher rental and from better satisfied tenants, who stay long.

Proofs of lowest-priced heating

The testimony of a million owners at home and abroad prove the fuel economy. There is absence of repairs—no wearing out—the screwed-tight joints prevent ash-dust and soot damages to furnishings and decorations. These outfits are simplest to run and property earns lowest insurance rate. IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators are the best that money can buy, pay for themselves! Fully guaranteed.

Architects know how this heating pays!

The IDEAL Heating outfit is the only equipment put into a building that will never be worth less than you pay for it, and will repeatedly repay by 100 years of service its original cost, through fuel and labor savings and absence of repairs. Can you possibly invest money better or more safely than this?

WHYS AND WHEREFORES.

It is possible that the voters of the first congressional district do not realize that on the date set for the April election there will be chosen four delegates at large to represent the state of Wisconsin as a whole and two delegates from each congressional district, to act as representatives of the Badger State at the national convention of the political parties to select presidential candidates.

The democrats have no contests as to delegations except in one district, while in the republican ranks there are two distinct tickets in the field. One named by the republican state convention assembled at Madison, January 27th, and the other a hand-picked, behind the locked doors, closet selections of La Follette. The Madison delegation was named to go to Chicago to attend the deliberations of the G. O. P. without instructions. To help select the best man brought out for consideration for the presidential nomination.

The second delegation go pledged to support Robert M. La Follette in his every four year presidential aspirations for chautauqua advertising purposes. It is a laudable ambition for every young man to hope to some day become president of the United States. It has been drilled into Young America for many decades past, but just now at this critical period in our national history we should forget political ambition of individuals and choose the best material available. It is not a personal choice or a state pride, but a national obligation. Remember that, Mr. Voter, when you go to the polls and vote in April.

On the republican ticket as delegates at large will be found the names of Philipp, Edwingson, Benesch and Cook as delegates at large. From the first congressional district Summa and Ingersoll. Rock county and Racine are represented on the congressional district delegation and it is to be hoped the first congressional district will show its true republicanism by electing the four delegates at large and the two district delegates chosen at a republican convention.

BEHIND THE PRESIDENT.

Wisconsin should stand behind the president at the present crisis just as it has stood behind him before. The trouble with the Mexican bandits has become acute. The "watchful waiting" policy has cost hundreds of lives. More than have been caused by the sinking of American passengers on ships. While numerous, carefully worded protests have been forwarded to Germany and other of the warring countries their real value has been lost sight of when it is known that until the present we have permitted a half civilized force of desperadoes under the Mexican flag to murder and violate our American men and women without fear of any reprisal. President Wilson is considering asking for two hundred and fifty thousand recruits to act as an adjunct to the present standing army. If he does, Wisconsin must send its quota. It is an unfortunate circumstance but one which the citizens of this republic must be firm to meet with. While Rock county has but one organized militia company ready for service, that at Beloit, still it is safe to say should a call come for recruits there will be no difficulty in raising the requisite number without trouble. It is indeed unfortunate that such complications arise, but forgetting that they were caused by the mismanagement of the democratic administration down at Washington the national pride in the stars and stripes should predominate and the president be given the support he asks for without question. Over a century ago the historic words were uttered in the halls of congress as regards the barbaric tribes of Tripoli. "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute." Today the question again arises and Congress and United States citizens, regardless of race or religion, should respond to the call if one is issued, for national defense of our honor and integrity. A spontaneous response to this call will have much to do towards teaching respect to the flag by European powers who now scoff at us and our weak-kneed foreign policy.

TAFT ON WEDNESDAY.

Janesville entertains former President William Howard Taft on Wednesday next and invites all citizens to attend his lecture at the Myers theatre. It is not often that a man of the prominence of Judge Taft will stop in a town the size of Janesville to deliver an address. That he talks on the subject of "International Peace," in itself a problem that brings forth many interesting questions, is almost sufficient to insure him a good audience, but with this country on the verge of a war with Mexico and in serious complications with certain European powers makes it doubly so. It is a non-political address and one that should be attended by men and women who wish to keep in touch with public matters. The orchestra for the Wisconsin Institute for the Blind has been arranged for to give a complimentary concert preceding the lecture and immediately following the address a reception will be held on the stage of the theatre so that all who attend may have an opportunity of meeting our distinguished visitor personally if they desire.

gushed visitor personally if they desire.

AN EMPTY VICTORY.

President Wilson has won a decided victory, if one is to accept the verdict of the democratic press, in that the house, by a vote of 276 to 143, has laid on the table the McLeMORE resolution warning Americans against traveling on armed merchantmen of belligerents. Seventy-four republicans voted with the democrats, however. Had these republicans voted against taking the resolution the motion would have been lost, 202 to 217. It was, therefore, only by reason of the fact that so large a number of republicans voted—not to uphold Mr. Wilson, but to refrain from confessing publicly in an international controversy that they believed him wrong—that the so-called "victory" was achieved. When Uncle Joe Cannon said to republican members: "He is your president. You elected him. You are responsible for him. And, no matter how he has blundered and vacillated, now, when he is engaged in a controversy with a foreign government, is not the time to proclaim him wrong or to abandon him to the fate of his own folly. In the eyes of all foreign nations, he is the United States. Only—the next time you choose a president be more careful," it had a tremendous effect upon the republicans.

WHY NOT ROOSEVELT?

One prominent Rock county citizen asked the question recently, "Why not nominate Roosevelt for the presidency?" Then he followed it up by a concrete example. "When John Hogan was the only policeman in Janesville there was not a tough who dared cross horns with him. They were afraid of his big stick and he kept order. When they got another officer on the force they all tackled him. Hogan was immune because they knew he was always ready to fight. We all know Teddy would fight at the drop of the hat. All Europe knows it. In view of this fate why not nominate him to throw the scare at least into some of those chaps that think the United States is a nation to play with." The man was a strong democrat, too. Think it over. Perhaps there is more wisdom in the suggestion than you think.

The Builders' Exchange has begun work on the new factory that is to be established here. It is an experiment but one which the citizens can well afford to back after the many disastrous investments in factory propositions that have been either "fizzled" or disappeared by the smoke route. Success is hoped for in this effort of the workmen's efforts to promote the best interests of Janesville.

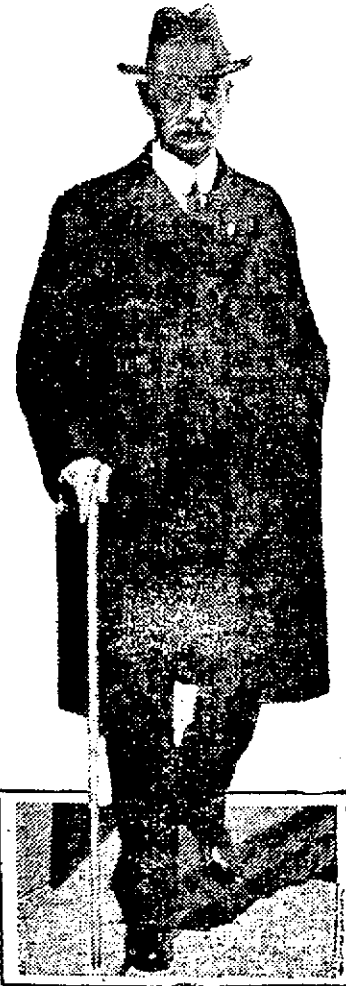

The Janesville Commercial club has many projects up for consideration and they are well worth considering. This organization means to do the best it can for the citizens and taxpayers and the earnest support of every citizen whose interests lie in the development of the city should be behind them.

Governor Philipp keeps on drilling along in the same old system and his enemies are much disturbed to think they can not annoy him by their petty attacks upon public business. Walter Owen talked himself out of the supreme court job, but whether Corrigan, the La Follette, candidate, will talk himself in, is a question.

This world, the next, and then the fireworks is the way some inconsiderate citizens express themselves. However, the fireworks are apt to happen in this world and not the next, if the trouble with Mexico develops into anything like it looks at present.

Now is the time to talk preparedness in real earnest. The United States can quickly find out how ill prepared we are for war if the present Mexican situation amounts to half what is anticipated.

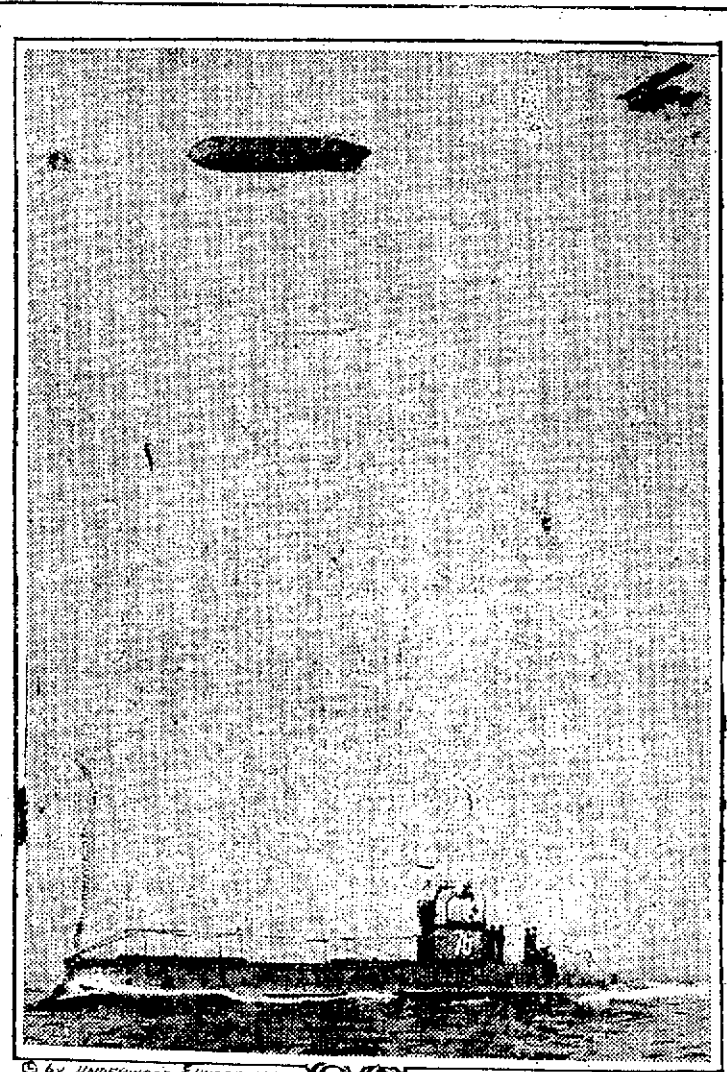

HE EMBARRASSED THE CONGRESSMEN

Jeff McLeMORE leaving U. S. capitol building.

Jeff McLeMORE, Texas cow puncher and printer, who introduced the warning resolution in the lower house of congress, has not made a great hit with some of his colleagues. Had it not been for McLeMORE's resolution, a lot of congressmen feel they would not have been compelled to take a stand on the delicate question of whether Americans should be warned off armed merchantmen.

But, by gosh, I'm not, cricky. Uncle Joe.
You are on our diagram. As a friend of Uncle Sam—
You don't waver worth a cuss, Uncle Joe.
We have panned you in the past, Uncle Joe.
For our villain you were cast, Uncle Joe.
But on national defense you're not partisan or dense. You have loyal common sense, Uncle Joe!

Her Age.
"Madame, how old are you?"
"Twenty-six," said the lady who is thirty-six if she is a day.
"Very well," said the judge, politely. "I asked you that question because if I hadn't it would surely have been asked you when the attorney for the defense cross-examined you. And now you have told us your age, do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?"

The Absent-Minded Man.
There is a prominent man of affairs in this town who is very absent-minded. Saturday he was about to leave the office of a bank president when the banker called to him:
"You're losing your petticoat, aren't you, Henry?"
The prominent man, not understanding, gazed inquiringly at the banker, who continued: "What's that white thing hanging below your trousers legs?"
The man looked down. His face colored, and he stepped back into the director's room. When he came out he walked briskly past the bank president, who called: "Here, why don't you explain?"
Coming close, the other whispered: "Simply forgot to take off my pajamas when I got out of bed this morning."

A Warning.
When the train stopped an antique looking dame thrust her head out of the car window and called, "Sonny!"
A bright looking boy came up to the window.
"Little boy," she said, "have you a mother?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"Do you love her?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"Do you go to school, dear?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"And are you faithful to your studies?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"Do you say your prayers every night?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"Can I trust you to do an errand for me?"
"Yes, ma'am."
"I think I can, too," said the kind lady, looking steadily down on the manly face. Here is a penny. Get me an apple. Remember God sees you!"

"The Papers."
The stage has its time-honored capers, is strong on tradition, in fine. Of course you remember "the papers" The hero refuses to sign.

Now anything new is forbidden. It wouldn't go well in a play. "The papers" are stolen and hidden. And all in a time-honored way.

chosen because they needed the money, because they were good fellows, or purely from sympathy. Especially is it true of a commission form of government that your councilman must have qualifications other than those above mentioned to take charge of your affairs for six long years. When you employ a man to do certain work for you and certainly when you must make a contract with him for six years under conditions which make it rather difficult to void the contract, you should look long and carefully into the record of that man. You pay him a good, reasonable salary and you expect your money's worth.

It is equally necessary that the qualifications of the candidate for councilman be as carefully canvassed and discussed and that the man best able to earn for you his $2,000.00 a year be chosen for the job.

A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Copyright by The Century Co.

At night when all the rest of the household had gone to bed, J. Y. softly opened Alan's door and looked in. Alan was awake and nodded. J. Y. came in and pattered about the room. He rolled a bit of paper into an amper shade and further veiled the night lamp. The lines in J. Y.'s rugged face were softened to lines of sweetness. He asked if there were nothing he could do and then turned to leave the room. With his hand on the door, he paused and smiled down on Alan. "My boy, you have been far, far away."

"Far away," replied Alan drowsily, "but I have come back."

The bracing air of Red Hill and a long night's sleep enabled Alan to keep his word with himself. He was up and out on the day following his arrival, but he still felt delightfully lazy and pitifully weak. Clem looked at him in a haughty way with many pillows, but Alan shrank from the haughty. They spread rugs instead in a nook under the trees, and Alan stretched himself out amid a riot of many-colored cushions, while Clem sat close by in a low rocking chair and talked and read and talked.

Talking or reading, Clem was a source of unvarying delight to Alan. Was it possible that one could live twenty years in an old world, rub elbows with life for twenty years, and remain so fresh, so untroubled? His own life rose up before him and mocked at him. Was it possible that one could live thirty years in this same world and be so old? He shrugged a shoulder petulantly. He would not think—he refused to think while he was so weak.

When Clem talked, it was like a child dreaming aloud; when she was silent one felt the presence of womanhood, wise with the unconscious accumulations of generations and unabashed. When Clem talked Alan was at ease; but when she was silent he was moved—troubled. A scared man may play with a child and do no harm to either. He can detach himself from his past as from the child and at a safe moral distance turn to watch its unconscious gambols. But with a woman it is different. Womanhood is a force; its mission to embrace, to sacrifice, to be unreasoning. Like fundamental man it demands a god and worships the god that comes to its need. Alan felt this force hovering in Clem's silence and was troubled.

The subjectivity of a sick man disarms woman; she knows she is safe and abandons her weapons of attack and defense as long as the invalid is taken up with the state of his insides. Clem was unaffected, even tender, with Alan as long as he was weak, but with his strength returned to him she withdrew, one by one and gently, the intimate attentions a woman accords to babes and the related helplessness. But there was nothing absolute in her withdrawal; it was more a temptation than a denial, born of woman's innate desire to be pursued. While Alan was merely convalescent it contained a suppressed gaiety, half desire, half mischief, but when his full strength came back and he failed to pursue, the gaiety arrested itself, turned into a questioning watchfulness and ended in the secret shame and blushes of the repulsed and undusted.

Clem saw Alan build a barrier against her, a barrier of little things, each insignificant in itself but each lending and borrowing the strength of accumulation. Alan spent hours with the old captain, walked, rode and talked with J. Y. and the judge. Between them, J. Y. and the judge had fixed up Lieber's affair and Alan had cabled.

In the midst of women Alan seemed to be able to forget woman—to forget her intentionally. There was nothing pointed in his avoidance. He kept his distance from Alice and Nance and Jane Elton in the same measure as from Clem. There was thus none of the single avoidance of the shy swain who lavishes attentions on all but her whom he would most dearly love. Clem, least vain of beautiful women, sat long hours before her glass. Never before had the charms revealed been questioned, never had she been forced to close in the ranks and call up the reserves, and now she felt at a loss, unaccustomed to the ready moves of the coquette. Clem dropped her face in her hands and cried.

Chapter XXX

Clem's was not the only troubled heart on the Hill. At The First Mrs. Lansing moved restlessly from room to room and stopped often to read and re-read a crumpled note—Gerry's note to Alice.

Alice was still in town. Mrs. Lansing had written to her and then wired. Alice replied telling her not to come, that she wished to be alone. For hours at a time Mrs. Lansing replaced the nurse at Gerry's junior's side. He helped her. She felt that he could help Alice.

She was almost glad when he developed some trifling ailment becoming to his years. She wired again and this time Alice came, frightened. Alice was like a wilted flower, but she braced herself until Gerry, junior, recovered into his healthy self. Then she dropped once more and refused to be comforted.

If it had not been for Alan, Alice's trouble would have cast a gloom over the rest of Red Hill, but it was known that Alan had sought out Mrs. Lansing and told her that not even he knew just how Gerry's battle stood, but that he did know that there was a battle and that Gerry would surely come back as soon as he had fought his way clear.

So the Hill in general went almost unmolested on its way trying to forget that it was still awaiting a fulfillment, and even Alice began to glean a little comfort from the thought that hope was but deferred. Her heart was sick, her faith weak, but hope still lived. She clung through the long days to Gerry, junior, and waited.

At Maple House the beating of young hearts amounted to a din, but it was suddenly stilled by a day of dreary rain. After the very tame excitement of seeing J. Y. and the judge off for the city, gloom settled in the faces of the children. Cousin Tom, in rubber boots and coat, came down the road from Elm House to find company for misery. The barn was requisitioned and became the scene of a subdued frolic, but it afforded merriment diversion. The hay was not in yet, the empty lofts were dreary. In the afternoon Mrs. J. Y. was besieged to surrender the house and finally did. Alan had gone to his room and closed the door. The captain was plunged in invulnerable slumber.

Somewhere rapped at Alan's door and he called, "Come in." The door opened and revealed Nance, junior. Behind her was a giggling, whispering throng. The spirit of fun danced in Nance's eyes. Her cheeks were flushed and her golden head was in disarray. "Oh, Cousin Alan," she cried, "grandma's given us leave for hide and seek and we're all going to play except mother and grandma and the captain. Please come, too, Cousin Alan."

From behind her came a modified echo, "Please do, Cousin Alan." Alan smiled and laid down his book. "All right," he laughed.

Maple House was a rambling abode that had grown and spread like the giant maples that sheltered it. In what was the captain had demanded a wing or some bygone Nance a nursery for her children was chronicled in the annals of the house itself, to be revealed only to the searching, architectural eye. The key to the rambling structure lay in the thick-walled dining room, the parlor, one bedroom and the kitchen.

From the nucleus of these four rooms Maple House had grown, imposed and superimposed, until it overflowed the arbitrary bounds of kitchens and front doors and like some mounded vine rippled off on all sides. In vast living room, sunny nurseries and a broken fringe of broad verandas. There were nooks that were satisfied and held back from further encroachment and there were outstanding corners that jutted boldly out over the sloping lawns and threatened a further raid.

Inside, the paths of daily life ran clearly enough through the maze, and on their flanks hung many a somber den for ambush or retreat. Cavernous closets, shadowy corners, lumbered attics and half-forgotten interstices of discarded space opened dark gorges to the latrine, and threatened the nervous and unwary with what they might bring forth. The gods of childhood's games themselves could not have built a better scene for that most palpitating of sports, hide and seek on a rainy day.

Alan soon entered into the spirit of the game. He found himself recollecting things about Maple House that he had more than half forgotten; strange byways under the roof; a vacant chamber, turned into a trunk room because one by one it had been robbed of its windows; and lastly the little attic that had been, as it were, left behind a wall.

Through this dreamland of a hundred children flitted the brood of the any, marshaled rather breathlessly by Clem and Alan. Anxious whispers, the scurrying of lightly shod feet, then a sudden silence but for the fluttering of some juvenile it, were followed by sudden screams and a wild race for the goal. Maple House had never contained the effete and dilapidated sport of 1897; it was all for hide and seek, where you had to hold your man when found or beat him to the goal.

Great was the excitement when the littlest of all caught Cousin Alan by a tackle around the ankle that spoke a volume of promise for the littlest of his academic career and brought a glow of achievement to his perspiring face. Alan was placed at the novel at the foot of the great staircase and duly admonished, in treble voices not to look. The treble voices rained excited instructions on him, carried away by youth's confidence in its ability to teach its grandmothers how to suck eggs. Alan started to count slowly in sonorous tones. With a last shriek and the patter of many feet the troubles faded away into silence.

Alan crept stealthily up the stairs. Out of the corner of his eye he caught sight of the twitching jumpers of the littlest, who was too fat to quite fit the retreat he had chosen. But Alan did not quite see until it was too late. The littlest exploded the vast breath he had been holding in and plunged headlong down the stairs. As he rolled by the novel he stuck out a sturdy arm and held fast. He shouted a pean of victory and once more palpitating silence fell on the house.

Alan wondered if he could find the way to the little attic. He hurried along the twisted halls, up a tiny flight of steps, turned, dived through a low, narrow tunnel and threw open the long-forgotten door. It was as though he had suddenly opened a portal on his own childhood. A great, pensioned rocking chair held the middle of the floor as within his ken it always had held it. Ancient garments hung from pegs on the walls and from hooks on the rafters. A box or two and more disabled furniture littered the floor. The whole was faintly lit up by the light from a little dormer window. Nothing stirred. Alan drew a long breath. He was not disappointed. No one had thought to come here but himself.

Suddenly a bit of the pendent wardrobe was swung aside and an apparition dashed for the door. Alan sprang in front of it, threw his arms around it, held it tight. It struggled, laughed, ceased to struggle and looked up at Alan looked down. Clem's face was very near to his. Her body, still throbbing with excitement, was in his arms. Alan felt such a rioting surge in his blood as he had never known before. He wanted to kiss Clem. He felt that he must kiss her, that there was not strength enough left in him to do anything else. Then his eyes met hers and he forgot himself and remembered Clem. His soul cried, "Sacrilège!" and he dropped his arms from about her and stepped back.

Clem stood before him, dazed. She was in her stocking feet. In each hand she held a little slipper. Her eyes were big and full of the soft reproach of the mortally wounded. Alan felt ashamed and looked away. He had to break the silence. "Well, you're caught," he said lamely.

Clem dropped one slipper, threw up her hand and brushed the disordered hair from her forehead. "Yes, I'm caught," she said, and her lip trembled on the words.

Chapter XXX

One day in midsummer Alan, to his disgust, was summoned peremptorily by McDale & McDale. Half an hour's consultation was all they required and Alan was pleased to find as he left their offices that he still had plenty of time to catch the early train back to Red Hill. There were only two afternoon trains for that difficult goal.

As he strolled up the avenue he was arrested by the sight of a tall figure standing on the curb watching the swirl of the traffic. The figure was dressed in a heavy waterproof suit and a Stetson hat, uncompromisingly domed in the very form in which it had been blocked by the makers. A street gamin yelled, "Hi, fellows, look what's got away from Buffalo Bill!" Kemp gazed sad-eyed but unmoved over his drooping mustaches, doubtless musing the passing of the shooting iron and the consequent unanswerable affronts of a fostered civilization.

Alan elbowed his way across the stream of pedestrians and clutched him by the arm. Kemp whirled around as if to meet attack, but smiled when he saw Alan's face. "I was just calculating on roundin' you up," he drawled.

"Where did you come from? Where are you off to?" cried Alan, and without waiting for an answer he halted a cab, hustled Kemp into it and ordered it to his club. He forgot his early train.

In the club lobby Kemp surrendered his hat reluctantly to the ready attendant and followed Alan across soft carpets to a quiet corner where two enormous chairs seemed to be making confidences to each other. One could imagine them aggrieved at being interrupted and sat upon.

"Well, Kemp," said Alan, "I'm glad to see you. What's yours?"

"Rye and a chaser," said Kemp.

"Same for me, waiter," ordered Alan.

"Now, Kemp, tell me all about it."

"I just blowed in from Lieber's, Mr. Wayne, and I'm headed west."

"How's Lieber and where's Gerry? Did Lieber get my cable?"

Kemp looked sidly out through the window. "Lieber's dead."

"Dead? Lieber dead?"

The poet and his wife were examining the cuneiform inscription in the museum.

"Oh, dear," sighed the wife. "I wish we lived in the days when literary men used clay tablets instead of writing paper."

"What makes you say that?" asked her husband.

"Why don't you see, dearie, if all your rejected manuscripts were

A LETTER FROM THE CONVENT OF ST. MARY AT FARNHAM, N. Y.

The Sisters in Charge Tell of Good Results from Using Father John's Medicine: A Body Building Food

We have permission to quote from the following letter recently received from the Sisters of St. Mary at Farnham, N. Y.: "The sisters who have been taking Father John's Medicine are perfectly cured of their cough, after having tried several other kinds of medicine without the least beneficial effects. We are sincerely grateful and would like to recommend Father John's Medicine to all as the very best for the most stubborn coughs and colds. Gratefully yours, (Signed), Sisters of St. Mary, Farnham, N. Y."

Father John's Medicine is best for colds because it is composed of nourishing food elements which give new strength and rebuild wasted tissue. Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription, and is free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, which you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that only system collects. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, phlegm, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets morning for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel—10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

bricks what an elegant house we could build!"

Thomas P. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, spoke of the problem of interest and worry in this country recently at a dinner of the New York Credit Men's association and told the following story to illustrate practices which Controller of the Currency John Skilton Williams had unearthed.

"A man down in my own state went into a little bank in a country town and gave his note for $10 for three months. The bank deducted interest and gave him $7.50. A friend noticed he was looking pretty thoughtful and glum."

"What's the matter, Jack?" he asked.

"I was just thinking," said Jack slowly, "how glad I am I didn't give my note for a year. I wouldn't have got a cent!"

"Can't you wait on me immediately?" demanded the richly dressed woman. "I'm in a great hurry."

"Yes. Let me have your prescription," said the druggist.

"I have no prescription. I want you to look up a number for me in the telephone book."

Just Like a Woman.

"That clock is two hours slow," said the man of the house when he came home at his usual time and found the dinner not even started.

"Impossible," said his wife. "I set it only this afternoon. I went over to Mrs. Smith's, next door, and asked her what time it was, and then as soon as she showed me her new gown and gave me a recipe for blackberry jam, I came right home and set the clock to the time she told me."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

What to Do for Itching Skins

There is usually immediate relief for skins itching, burning and disfigured by eczema, ringworm, or similar tormenting skin-trouble, in a warm bath with resinol soap and a simple application of resinol ointment. The soothing, healing resinol medication stops itching at once, and soon clears away all trace of eruption, even in severe and stubborn cases, unless the trouble is due to some serious internal disorder.

You need never hesitate to use resinol. It is a doctor's prescription that has been used by other physicians for twenty years in the treatment of skin affections. It contains absolutely nothing that could injure the tenderest skin. Every druggist sells resinol ointment and resinol soap. Resinol soothes tender skins and helps to make poor complexions clear, fresh and velvety, because it contains this resinol prescription.

COUNTY ATHLETES ON ALL-TOURNAMENT FIVE

Rock County Athletics Named on All-District Squad at Whitewater Tournament—Cronin is Honored.

Seven out of the eleven basketball players placed on the two all-tournament teams at Whitewater were from Rock county. Edgerton is represented in three positions. Janesville secured but one berth on this five. Cronin, a guard, was the man placed on the five by the Whitewater officials. Richards, another Blue and White player, was placed on the second squad as captain of the five. Edgerton broke in on the first squad in two places. Williams was named captain and placed in the left guard position. McIntosh of the Tobacco City team was named for the left forward position. Both of these players were the wonders for their aggregation in all the games they played. Williams is a good dribbler and a strong guard and would work good with Cronin. McIntosh was one of the chief scorers for his live and a good man to work with a team.

Durand of Evansville, and Wright of Jefferson, are the two remaining players who were put on the all-tournament team. Both these players were the lights of their teams in the games played at the basketball meet and it was well that they received berths on the five. Carr of Beloit, was named as substitute.

On the second team no one school had more than one representative named. Richards, Janesville's crack forward, captains the squad and would play in the left forward position. Stutz of Jefferson was named right forward. Clark, Edgerton, at center. Terman of Beloit, left guard, and Myers of Port Atkinson, right guard. The selection of both the first and second squad makes two strong teams that would be hard to beat should they ever play.

Lee and Cushing also made strong bids for places on these fives, but the fact that they were ruled out of one of the games made the tournament officials overlook them. While at the tournament, Cushing was at his best. He worked in with the team at all times and was the chief scorer for the Blue and White.

Edgerton Wins.

The tournament closed Saturday after having three successful days of basketball contests. Edgerton, the winner of the tourney, gave one of the strongest teams in the history of their school and will make a strong showing in the state meet which will be held in Milwaukee on Thursday.

LAKOTAS VICTORIOUS OVER ROCKFORD 20-14

JANESVILLE FIVE STEPS NEARER CHAMPIONSHIP BY BEATING ROCKFORD TEAM.

SEASON'S BEST GAME

Crowd of Over Eight Hundred Witnessed Stellar Exhibition of Basketball.

—Play University Team Next.

With both teams bailing and struggling to their maximum power, using their best advanced basketball, the Lakotas defeated the crack Rockford team of Rockford Saturday night at the Auditorium by a score of 20 to 14.

The victory is the biggest boost that the Lakotas have made on their home floor and entitles them to an edge for championship claims of the middle west.

The game on Saturday was a marvel exhibition of basketball. As was expected, there was an over amount of questionable tactics, and some that could be classed as "dirty" without fear of a line charge. The two teams have been key rivals all the season, both advancing title claims and both apparently evenly matched. So rough and intense playing was anticipated.

Over eight hundred people came near suffering nervous prostration during the forty minutes of play, for every one in the Auditorium watched every move during the tilt with nerves taut and interest centered on the ten players.

Team Work Won.

Never have the Lakotas played a better game. The team was composed of the true Cardinal five, without outside players, and is originally the same five which won the high title of Wisconsin in 1915. Edger, captain of the team, had mapped out the playing, and everyone did his share. The Lakotas played with a "zip" and a rush as compared to the slow, halting, eastern style coached by Fogarty. Their offense was brilliant, but their guarding was the deciding factor in the game.

The fighting spirit of the Lakotas had been edged up to the highest point and all five men were more aggressive, in the right way, than at any other time this season. Edger and Dalton, at guards, played a "whale" of a game. In the first half they held the Rockford forwards senseless and during the last half, Fogarty-the great scorer twice and Wilson once. Korst played the best game of his career Saturday night. For he was aggressive, worked to the team play and played back on defense. Atwood was the scoring cog in the Lakotas machine, for it was upon his goal shooting that they depended to outdistance the challenging team.

The team that Rockford was a great combination of the strength of five, of course, was Fogarty and Young. Fogarty may be unpopular with the fans but even his worst critic must admit he is a wonderful player. His dribbling ability did not get him against Dalton, for this "package of dynamite" clung to Fogarty with might and main. He went after the Rockford shark, and what is more he succeeded in stopping him. Korst kept Young well covered, for this player's ability in scoring long shots is well respected. Wilson played against Edger and was lucky to get one goal.

The Lakotas played their defensive game well, staying back when Rockford advanced and then covering up every man until they got the ball. Rockford tried blocking, but were called for by Referee Langdon. Fogarty's attempt to pocket the Lakotas were so crude that it could not even be called blocking but rather a football line plunge. Very few times were the visitors able to play away from the Lakotas have well learned the methods of staying in front of an opponent and refuse to be lead down the floor.

The First Half.

The first half opened with Atwood missing two easy goals, as the Lakotas started with a rush. Young made the first score on a long shot from the center of the floor. The ball sailed through the space and dropped through the net without touching the rim. It was a most spectacular shot. Atwood got away with two goals and Korst scored one on a side shot. Murray was the only other Rockford player to score from the field. The half ended with the count 8 to 5 in the Lakotas' favor.

General Fogarty evidently had drilled his players into guarding better, more careful dribbling and playing during the rest, and as a result the team played in unison. The score at the end of ten minutes of play stood 10 to 4 in the Lakotas' favor and the result looked extremely dubious. Edger got the ball on the tip-off, took a short dribble and dropped the ball into the net in a shot that was longer than Young's first score. He repeated a minute later with an overhead, leaping drive that clinched the game.

Atwood had a clever duck and swing that enabled him to pivot around Fogarty, and he scored two short shots. Dalton came near covering himself with glory when he took a slam at the goal from the center of the floor, but "Motzy" miscalculated the bet by a fraction of an inch and he had ever made that goal, the Kaiser himself would have pinned an iron cross on him on March 17th.

The game entitles the Cardinals a just right to the western title. The Lakotas beat Company of Fred du Lac in a series, took one game from Red Wing, who refused to play here, and in sixteen games have lost but two contests. Next Saturday night a team from the university first team and squad will play here. The game should be one of the best of the season and will settle the often disputed question of university basketball. It is superior to that played by the Lakotas. If the winner of the I. A. C. tournament can be secured to play two games here, a definite decision can be reached on the title of the middle west for this season.

The Summary.

Lakotas (20)—Rockford (14)—Korst, 1; Fogarty, 4; Wilson, 1; Hemming, 1; Murray, 1; Edger, 1; Dalton, 1; Atwood, 4; Fogarty, 1; Murphy, 1; Korst, 1; Hemming, 1; Wilson, 1.

Field goals—Young, 2 out of 2 chances; Korst, 1 out of 2 chances. Goals called—On Rockford 5, Lakotas 2.

Referee—William Langdon. Attendance—340.

Here and There.

If Frank Moran fails to hop Willard in their coming battle, the biggest new aspirant to the heavyweight title will start training to meet the champion. Dalton, although a new hope in pugilistic circles, is a comer, as his victory over Fogarty during the second half will indicate.

The squabble between Dalton and Fogarty was the result of Fogarty's pushing his hand into Dalton's face, which also caused him to play. Fogarty's fingers injured "Motzy's" eye. It was bit-biff-bang for a second and then the two shook hands and laughed over the breach of peace. But thereafter Fogarty was very careful regards the use of his hands.

Atwood's pivoting was so fast and clever that none of the Rockford men could hold him, until he injured his knee, which he closed the biggest bargain in baseball when he paid $50,000 for a real star.

Messrs. Ruppert and Huston must be weighed down with money. One year they purchase the New York American league baseball club and the next year they buy Lee Magee.

The St. Louis Browns have marched right down on Palestine, Tex., and captured it without a shot being fired in its defense. It was whispered for a while that the Brooklyn Superbas would train there if the diamond at Daytona was not in proper condition.

CLARK WILL HAVE A NEW TEAM FOR ROCKFORD FANS IN ASSOCIATION LEAGUE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 13.—When Pop Clark, leader of the Brewer clan, calls the roll at Pine Bluff, Ark., on March 16, he will find almost an entire new bunch of athletes to train for the race for the American association pennant.

The worth of these untrained and untried candidates for the Brewer line-up is an unknown quantity and will be held until the season is under way. They must be started in the gymnasium, many shakels to roll into President Timme's pockets—which is the thing most desired—and they may all be candidates for the city league of Oostburg.

However, what little dope there is at hand on the quality and ability of the coming Brewer team, isn't causing any great exuberance among the fans. They have one hope in the future, and that is that the management fully understands that they need a winner if they want to show a balance on the right side of the ledger when the going is not in proper condition.

This encourages the followers of the team to believe that if the present aggregation does not come up to standards the owners will let them know in getting out the can and calling for a new deal.

Those who will start at Pine Bluff, are:

Pitchers—Joe Hovik, Dixie Walker, Tony Faeth, Cy Young, Glen Ditto, Cyril Slapnicka, Frank Kransnick, Red Shackleford, and Harry Gervais.

Catchers—Robert Farrell, Bodie Fields, Robert Spellman, and Nic Alton.

Infielders—Harry Clark, manager, Jack Martin, Elmer Benson, Joe Stutz, Paul E. Hancock, Mark Hum, Harry Herzog, J. F. Malloy, Al Durgan, and Tom Bewly.

Outfielders—John Fuhrer, R. Williams, Leslie Critchlow, Arthur Nelson and Jack Schlee.

The outfield looks pretty weak in the knees. According to past performances, Williams looks like the only man who will be sure of holding his job outside of Scheer. There are no figures on the past work of the other candidates.

The pitchers don't seem to have any special medals coming for their work in the box. Hovik's arm has been bad. Slapnicka and Walker made a fair record last season, and Faeth looks like he will do some good work.

Beside Clark, the infield is nearly all new and but little dope to judge by.

WELCOME FOR MONROE HIGH TUROUNAMENT CHAMPIONS

Monroe, Wis., March 13.—The Monroe high school basketball team was given a rousing welcome upon their return to the city of Monroe, where they attended the Platteville tournament and won first honors, winning every game out of four played with the highest and strongest teams at the tournament. This gives them the championship for this section and entitles them to enter into the state tournament at Milwaukee next week and another state tournament at Appleton, held April 30 and 31.

The boys were given a silver shield and each one presented with a gold watch fob in view of the victory. These were presented by the authorities in charge of the tournament. The Monroe Hus-sar band, automobiles and over two hundred high school students met the team at the station and escorted them to the square, where the band played several selections and the students gave their class yell.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Among the hurling recruits to be given the careful o. o. by Hughie Jennings at Vauxhall, which is in Texas, is Tom Fagan, a youth who pitched for Oklahoma City last season. Fagan participated in eighteen contests and is credited with thirteen victories and no defeats. He allowed only thirty-three passes and had no wild pitches. As a batsman, however, he failed to shine, his average being one of Rip Hagerman proportions—.064.

Manager Rufus Gilbert of the Terre Haute Central league team has signed Cobb and Evers for 1916. Paul Cobb, brother of Ty Cobb, will play center field and Joe Evers, brother of the only original Johnny, will scamp around second base.

Jesse Burkett, who recently sold out his interests in Worcester, says it is the first time in twenty-six years that he has not been under a contract of some kind.

President George Tebeau of the Kansas City club makes it known that he wants a new nickname for his team, which has been called the Blues for several years. The name of Blues, he says, has been a hoodoo.

Lee Magee was sold for $22,500, yet he never batted .300 in his major league career. Charles Comiskey still insists that he closed the biggest bargain in baseball when he paid $50,000 for a real star.

Messrs. Ruppert and Huston must be weighed down with money. One year they purchase the New York American league baseball club and the next year they buy Lee Magee.

The St. Louis Browns have marched right down on Palestine, Tex., and captured it without a shot being fired in its defense. It was whispered for a while that the Brooklyn Superbas would train there if the diamond at Daytona was not in proper condition.

On facts and figures Roger Bresnahan, new boss of the Spiders, has gobbled up enough stars to make the team a pennant contender for Toledo this year. The acquisition of George Stovall would make an A. A. team formidable. Roger has him with Pitchers Kaiserling, Mains and Bedient, and several other good players. Rog intends to keep Rex DeVoigt, Earl Wood, Earl Gardner and one or two other present players.

Jim Thorpe, world's champion all-around athlete, will stick in the majors if a changed batting style will turn the trick. The Indian, with the Giants, failed to hit the National league twirlers while batting right-handed. McGraw shipped him to Toronto last season, but recalled him and now is elated over the way the chief crowns the pill at Marlin, Tex., clouting left-handed.

If Jess Willard makes easy work of Frank Moran it will not establish that he really is a great champion, but if Moran should put it over on Willard it will prove that his victory over Jack Johnson was not much of an achievement. Willard has nothing to gain by beating Moran, who, if he had been in the fighting game ten years ago, would never have been heard from. There was, however, always a chance for a fellow of Willard's tremendous size, though he still will have to show that his victory over Jack Johnson was clean cut and not the result of a colored champion not being in good shape.

REGENERATION OF KOREA CONTINUES DESPITE WAR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Seoul, Korea, March 13.—The regeneration of Korea has been continuing notwithstanding the war, according to a proclamation just issued by Count Teiarauchi, the governor-general, who warns the people against overconfidence and urges them to greater progress. In round figures, the foreign trade of the country has reached $54,300,000 during the past year, according to the report, doubling the sum of five years ago. The value of export has risen nearly three fold, with the result that the excess of import over export, which once stood at 100 per cent, has dropped to 20 per cent.

The value of agricultural products is now estimated at $150,000,000 a year, which is double the returns for the first year under the Japanese regime. More rice was produced than was needed last year, so it was possible to export his commodity to the value of $12,000,000. The governor-general pointed out that there was still great necessity, however, for improving the methods of farming. The area of cultivated land is still only 12 per cent of the entire area of arable territory. To avoid loss from flood or drought, it is still necessary to enlarge the system of irrigation, and to undertake afforestation.

Among other things which the governor-general noticed as items in the progress of Korea were the fact that more than 600 guides for saving money had been established with a total credit of $400,000; deposits in postal savings banks had reached a total of $300,000; repairs have been completed during the past five years on some 7,000 miles of road; the construction of the Honam-Seoul-Wonsan railway has been completed, in addition to the Fusan-New-Wiju line, and the total mileage of railways now open to traffic is over a thousand miles. Telegraph and postal stations have been established at more than 650 places; the total number of common schools is now over 10,000 and some schools for higher education also have been founded.

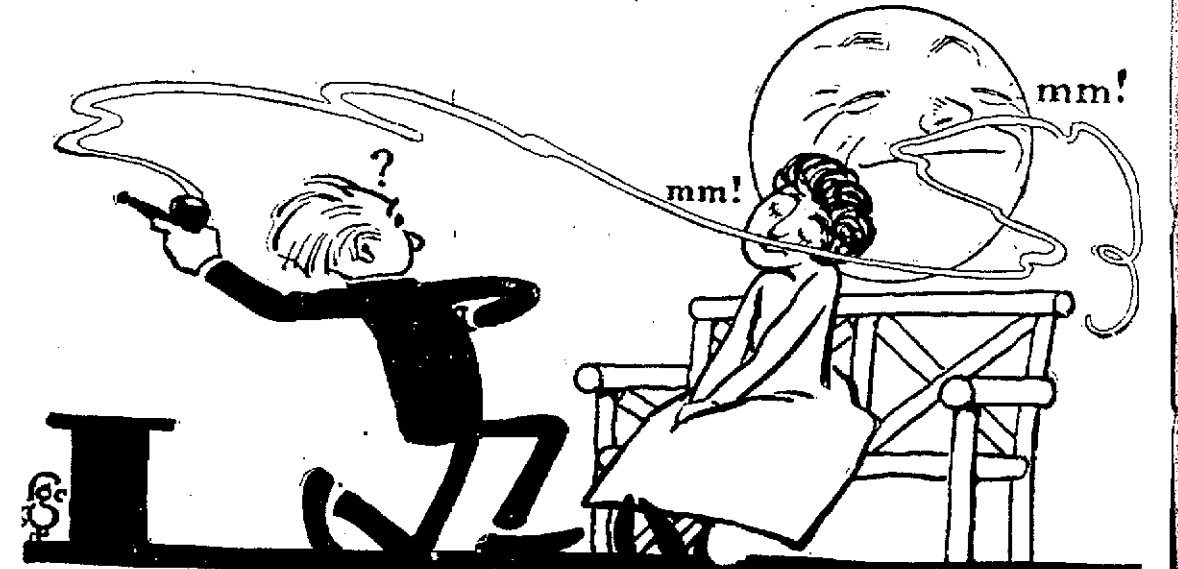

ENGLAND'S NEW FLEET UGLY BECAUSE OF "MAKE-UP"

Aboard H. M. S. Torpedo Boat No. 90, somewhere in the North sea, March 13. Visible proof that British ship yards have not been idle since this war began was seen from the deck of this little craft today.

Steaming slowly past a long double line of warships, observers aboard were able to look upon a new type of sea fighters, many types in fact, built for war and not for looks. These ugly colored craft with mottled sides and daubed plates were the babies of the fleet, "infants" who have plunged their noses into the sea without ceremony or publicity.

The shipyards from when they came as turning out sister ships as fast as men can put new iron together. No time is being wasted veneering the officers' cabins in mahogany or to putting the painter's touch on the hull and superstructure. These newest craft are just plain ugly but they embody all the latest kinds of efficiency for which naval constructors have the experience of war to thank.

The make-up of these fleet "babies" must remain a mystery until after the war. In the meantime they are the secret pride of the British navy.

Low, rich TUXEDO!

Get yourself properly Tux-ified and you'll make all rivals look as though they were tied to a post—'cause there's no tobacco made that rivals Tuxedo for speeding things up.

You just can't taste the savory flavor and whiff the snappy fragrance of "Tux" without feeling the spirit of hustle, shooting through your whole system.

PROF. WILLIS L. MOORE
Ex-Chief of the United States Weather Bureau
"Tuxedo appeals to me because it is fragrant, without being heady; mild, but not tasteless. A thoroughly enjoyable, satisfying pipe tobacco that affords wholesome relaxation."

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

And no wonder! For there's no tobacco leaf in the wide world so rich as the choice, ripe Burley that Tuxedo is made of. When this wonderful leaf is mellowed to perfect mildness and every last bit of bite taken out by the original "Tuxedo Process" you have a smoke that's packed full of life and joy and satisfaction. Try Tuxedo for a week.
